Chatting with Mr. Chatterton

Happy Snowy Monday Dragons! Believe it or not, we have three straight weeks of school with no breaks!

This Friday, March 9th, we are having a Read-a-thon. You will be hearing from your teacher about what they have planned for their classroom. All students are invited to bring a pillow and stuffed animal and, of course, their favorite book to read. Thank you in advance to the PTA for providing snacks for all of the classrooms. We are also coordinating our Read-a-thon with Dr. Seuss' birthday, which was March 2nd.

Last Thursday we had an assembly, put on by the American Heart Association, to kick off Jump Rope for Heart. Students will be jumping rope in their PE classes for the next 2 weeks and they will learn strategies to be heart healthy throughout their lives.

Our Peer Leadership Team, along with myself and our counselor, Miss Dilanchian, are planning an optional event on March 14th to show support for safe schools and kick off our own kindness initiative. Our initial plan is to have a 17 minute walkout at 10:00 a.m. to show support for the students at Parkland High School. Teachers will be using this time to talk about kindness and showing support for classmates and our school. If you would like to help with this event, please contact me or Miss Dilanchian.

Thank you for your continued support to make Dilworth such a great place.

Thanks,

Jeremy Chatterton

Principal

Jump Rope for Heart

An information letter was given to the students to take home last week. Students will be participating during PE class, and you can register online at heart.org/jump, then search Dilworth. We are doing this to educate students on heart and health awareness.
